| Hello, | _ |
| yesterday everything was working fin connection died. Unfortunately I don't see if there's a problem with the adap does indeed appear to- plugged netw router/internet - flashed SD card and | device and connect to my router using the wired LAN port. Until e (for almost 2 years) and then, all of a sudden, the wired LAN know enough about Linux to go and scratch around in the OS to oter, but I've done the following tests in confirming that the problem work cable into another device and confirmed connection to reloaded stable OpenELEC image file to confirm issue is not network adapter simply seems dead (i.e. no activity on router or | Raspberry Pi when connecting cable). Would it be at all possible that the adapter component failed completely and, if so, how would I confirm this via the OS? Lastly, should the component have failed

Any help will be apprecited.

I didn't find the right solution from the Internet.

completely, how would I go about replacing the said component?

| Thank you. | | | |
